In contrast with the current standard of care, the anticancer drug paclitaxel is a liquid suspension with a limited shelf-life of 1 month. To address this issue, the drug is formulated with Excipients Z and X, which effectively increases the shelf-life of the drug to 3 months. The Excipients act as fillers, stabilizers, and solvents to create paclitaxel particles that are much larger than the original drug particles in the liquid suspension. This allows the paclitaxel particles to remain chemically intact during the long periods of storage, but enables these paclitaxel particles to be more easily resuspended in the liquid carrier when diluted with the diluent prior to administration. Excipients Z and X also serve as
